

Franci Crepeau-Hobson, associate professor, with PsyD students

Preparing innovative school psychologists to be culturally responsive practitioners in diverse settings

PSYD IN SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGY

Launch your school psychology career by joining University of Colorado Denver's APA-accredited Doctor of Psychology (PsyD) in School Psychology program. Our program is one of only a handful of APA-accredited programs in the U.S. that offers an optional bilingual school psychologist concentration.

TOP PROGRAM IN THE COUNTRY

CU Denver's program has a 100 percent job placement rate and is considered the best value in Colorado for this type of degree. The foundational mission of the program is to train culturally and linguistically responsive school psychologists. All of the courses revolve around themes of equity and social justice. Students obtain supervised training and a strong foundation in theory and clinical practices.

OUR STUDENTS:

- Engage in supervised clinical experience with children, youth and families from a range of diverse backgrounds
- Participate in a practitioner-scholar training model
- Learn directly from nationally recognized faculty
- Engage with schools, agencies and members of the community on important issues such as youth suicide prevention
- Support children birth to twenty-one

Students in the optional bilingual school psychologist concentration:

Learn how to approach bilingual learners, families and communities with an asset orientation and receive language proficiency assessments to ensure they can provide the highest quality multilingual psychoeducational services.

Learn more and apply: education.ucdenver.edu/SchoolPsych

Minimum education level:

Bachelor's degree from a regionally accredited institution

Degree format:

The 100-credit-hour degree program provides student-focused instruction through on-campus, hybrid and online classes.

Licensure: Graduates are eligible for licensure in School Psychology by the Colorado Department of Education, as well as licensure by the Colorado State Board of Psychologist Examiners.

Scholarships:

ucdenver.academicworks.com

Accreditation:

Accredited on contingency by the American Psychological Association (effective through 2023). Approved by the National Association of School Psychologists.

Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE)

program: Residents of WICHE member states qualify to pay Colorado resident tuition.

For more information visit: www.wiche.edu

School of Education & Human DevelopmentOffice of Recruitment & Outreach

education@ucdenver.edu

303.315.6300

Choose CU Denver's School of Education & Human Development:

The School of Education & Human Development at the University of Colorado Denver provides an education that will prepare you for excellence in your career as a school psychologist. The university and school are recognized for preparing leaders of distinction who value educational excellence and social justice. Additionally, CU Denver's School of Education and Human Development is counted among U.S. News & World Report's "Best Graduate Schools," making us one of the top schools in the country.

Learn more and apply: education.ucdenver.edu/SchoolPsych

University of Colorado Denver

