

Tuesdays, 7PM-8:30PM, Student Commons, Room 1500, Auraria Campus

Faculty from CU Denver will present on topics related to the Humanities, and the lectures will be presented to be enjoyable for people with an unrelated expertise. The Mini-School for the Humanities is free for all, and those who do attend at least 6 classes will earn a Certificate. Seating is limited and registration is required.

Please register at: <https://gs.ucdenver.edu/minihum/>

- | | |
|---------------------|--|
| SEPTEMBER 11 | Liberal Arts Education: What is it and why is it valuable today?
Jeff Franklin, Ph.D.
CU Denver English Department |
| SEPTEMBER 18 | It's the Humanities, Stupid! Studying Humanities in Uncertain Times
Margaret Woodhull, Ph.D.
CU Denver Humanities Program |
| SEPTEMBER 25 | The Relevance of Pre-modern Narratives to our Current Population
Nancy Ciccone, Ph.D.
CU Denver English Department |
| OCTOBER 2 | Communication and Sports
Sarah Fields, Ph.D.
CU Denver Communication Department |
| OCTOBER 9 | Historical Perspectives on Citizenship
Marjorie Levine-Clark Ph.D.
CU Denver History Department |
| OCTOBER 16 | Do Philosophers Actually Do Anything?
Mark Bauer, Ph.D.
CU Denver Philosophy Department |
| OCTOBER 23 | The Media Panic about Sexting
Amy Hasinoff, Ph.D.
CU Denver Communication Department |
| OCTOBER 30 | Global Leadership Lessons from Nelson Mandela
Wayne Cascio, Ph.D.
Center for International Business, Education and Research |